

Preempting the Telephone Privacy law is a bad idea. Since I have entered my name to the phone privacy list, I'm not being disturbed when my family and I sit down for our only meal together. My children and I are not being awakened at night to be asked if we need a credit card or to change our long distance services. I pay to have this service and I do not want to be hassalled by these types of people.

Respectfully

Bryan Noggle